

What time is it?

Time to get our orders?

Speak our mind?

Destroy?

The Post-Media Era

Tele

vision that reaches for miles

mans achievement

now in your home

to communicate

two ways

we stole a network

used it to trade knowledge

used it to create other networks escaped control.

Now where do you get your programming?

In this cage?

Hidden fantasies

freedom fighters

and yes,

Yes!

fascists and

fascinated fanatics

Yes!

reactionaries

backward moving minds.

Brain wash.

Some said,
“Beyond the spectacle
there is a place for us Together”

But,
aren't we already in the
underground?
Flip that idea
Flip
Flip
Do you follow?
(we grew up
watching
the others trying to reach us)

Where is freedom?
Someone is breaking through:
voices
information
a digital library
The network fractures
The Image.
Is this freedom?
Pornography,
the visual flow of lies.
Smooth.
Perfect.

Tele
Vision
Seeing
Great
Distances

The Video of Your Leader Makes Him a God

Who listens, when we are altering the course
history written in

color
motion
garden
image
recorded sound
publication
archive
record collection
compost heap
solar heater
discussion board
virtual network

This technology grew up in Ecology
everyone talks to everyone.

What time is it?

Matthew Shultz & Gwen McKay
for Alley Culture
Detroit, 2008